HumanTrafficking

JANUARY 25TH, 2005 AT 7:00 p.m.

THE HOFFMAN AUDITORIUM

COST: FREE

KEYNOTE SPEAKER:

Sr. Mary Ellen Dougherty from Catholic University—
Project Administrator, STOP (STOP TRAFFICKING OF PERSONS)

PANEL DISCUSSANTS:

Lisa Holden—Executive Director, CCADV
(CONNECTICUT COALITION AGAINST DOMESTIC VIOLENCE)

Dr. Christina Moore, Clinical Psychologist

FACULTY RESPONDENTS:

Dr. Jane Rudd & Dr. Shyamala Raman
Saint Joseph College

The focus of this session will be to increase our understanding of what Human Trafficking is, how to identify victims of trafficking, what to do when someone is identified to be at risk, as well as to discuss policy making and community responses to the problem. A growing problem in the United States, it is important for those currently or intending to assume service roles to learn about this topic.

Who should attend?

- Students
- Educators
- Service providers (counselors, social workers, psychologists, community leaders)
- Health care professionals (nurses, physicians, clinic staff, first responders)
- Law enforcement representatives
- Representatives from Religious Communities
- Public health professionals and policy makers

As members of the Saint Joseph College community, this important issue merits our attention. Please invite your students, colleagues and community contacts to join us.

Limited seating available: call 231-5555 for reservations.*
